Introducing Zenalpa® And A New Partnership With Dechra Canada

We're thrilled to announce our new partnership with Dechra Canada! With innovation in veterinary medicine at the forefront of our collaboration, we're hoping to make a tangible difference to the industry.

Part of that difference is introducing and supporting products that make the lives of veterinary professionals, pet owners and patients easier through increased efficacy and intuitive formulas.

Dechra Canada is pleased to announce their new product Zenalpa®, launching in December, following years of studies in the US and Europe. To further improve the wellbeing of pets and the people that care for them, Dechra Canada is making a donation to NOMV with every two bottles of Zenalpa purchased. This donation will aid NOMV in its essential work in fostering sustainable wellness for professionals within Canada's veterinary community.

Innovation is at the heart of Zenalpa. Join us in supporting its launch, and in turn, supporting our combined mission in making a positive, lasting change in veterinary medicine.

Participate in a Research Study

We are inviting you to complete an electronic survey about your reactions to a suicide prevention advertisement. The survey only takes about 15 minutes to complete, and it is voluntary and anonymous. Learn more here.

With your participation, we can gather more information on how to prevent suicide in veterinarians. Additionally, we ask that you please do not post this survey link on social media, to help prevent bots from attacking the study. However, we encourage you to share the link privately with any colleagues who may want to participate.
